CLO Junior Debt is an Attractive Asset Class	 BB-Rated CLO Debt has had a relatively low historical default rate of 7 bps per annum¹ We believe that BB-Rated CLO debt offers the potential for higher returns as compared to senior secured loans and high yield bonds All of the Company's BB-rated CLO securities are floating rate and could benefit from increases in interest rates The Credit Suisse Leveraged Loan Index has generated positive total returns in 27 of the past 29 full calendar years ²

^{2.} The CSLLI tracks the investable universe of the US dollar-denominated leveraged loan market. The performance of an index is not an exact representation of any particular investment, as you cannot invest directly in an index. Similarly, since 2001, from a total return perspective, the S&P/LSTA Leveraged Loan Index experienced only two down full calendar years (2008 and 2015 with returns of -29.1% and -0.7%, respectively). The S&P/LSTA Leveraged Loan Index is a market value-weighted index designed to measure the performance of the U.S. leveraged loan market based upon weightings, spreads and interest payments. Why Invest in BB-Rated CLO Debt?

Key Attributes

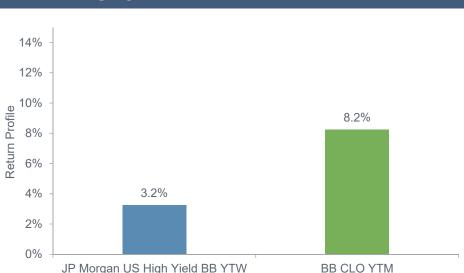

- Potential for lower credit expense
- Potential for higher returns
- Expected protection against rising interest rates¹

^{1.} Similar to the senior secured loans that serve as the underlying collateral for CLOs, BB-Rated CLO debt is a floating rate security that pays interest based on the 3-month LIBOR, plus a spread and, as a result, is expected to have lower interest rate risk than other fixed income securities in a rising interest rate environment. However, the Company's CLO investments are still subject to other forms of interest rate risk.

^{2.} Standard & Poor's, Default, Transition, and Recovery: 2017 Annual Global Leveraged Loan CLO Default Study And Rating Transitions; Adviser's analysis of market data over applicable periods. The default rate on BB-Rated CLO Debt for the period from 1996 through 2Q 2018 is 1.5% (or just 0.07% per annum) as compared to 2.7% per annum for senior secured loans (from 1998 through 2Q 2018, the period for which the data is available) and 4.3% per annum for high-yield bonds (from 1996 through 2Q 2018).

Loan Market Repayment Rate

Loan repayments provide capital for reinvestment within CLOs

Annual Repayment Rate

Source: S&P LCD, as of June 30, 2021.

CLOs are Securitizations of a Portfolio of Senior Secured Loans

EIC focuses primarily in junior debt tranches of CLOs, with a focus on BB-Rated CLO Debt

Key Characteristics of CLO Structure

- No mark-to-market triggers (i.e., no margin calls or forced sales)
- Match funded (i.e., limited refinancing risk on CLO debt)¹
- Ability to reinvest loan principal (i.e., actively managed)

The CLO structure highlighted on this page is a hypothetical structure, and the structure of CLOs in which the Company invests may vary from the example.

^{1.} Since a CLO's indenture typically requires that the maturity dates of a CLO's assets (typically 5 to 8 years from the date of issuance of a senior secured loan) be shorter than the maturity date of the CLO's liabilities (typically 12 to 13 years), CLOs generally do not face refinancing risk on the CLO debt. However, CLO investors do face reinvestment risk with respect to a CLO's underlying portfolio. In addition, in most CLO transactions, CLO debt investors are subject to prepayment risk in that the holders of a majority of the equity tranche can direct a call or refinancing of a CLO, which would cause the CLO's outstanding CLO debt securities to be repaid at par.

Key Forms of Credit Enhancement for CLO Debt Investors

CLO debt benefits from structural features and covenants that enhance its credit protection

Overcollateralization

 At a CLO's inception, the principal value of the loan collateral exceeds the principal amount of the CLO debt outstanding (i.e., the CLO debt is "overcollateralized" by excess loan collateral)

■ Excess Spread

Since the spread on a CLO's loan collateral exceeds the spread on the CLO debt, this excess spread serves as a source of credit enhancement for CLO debt investors

■ Non-Static Structure

 The structure of CLOs enables the CLO collateral manager to take advantage of periods of market stress and loan price volatility by re-investing principal proceeds from loan repayments and sales into loans potentially at lower prices and wider spreads

In Eagle Point's opinion, these "self-correcting" structural features of CLOs offer a margin of safety for CLO debt investors and have contributed to the low historical default rate on CLO debt¹

Past performance is not indicative of, or a guarantee of, future performance. No representation is being made as to the applicability of historical statistics to future periods. Amounts shown are rounded and therefore totals may not foot. Please see Important Information on page 1.

- 1. WA (Weighted Average). Weighted average coupon of CLO debt and weighted average mark of CLO debt are based on relative par amounts as of June 30, 2021. The effective yield on the Company's portfolio of investments is estimated based upon the estimated fair market value of the underlying CLO holdings, current projections of the amounts and timing of each investment's recurring distributions (which for CLO debt securities reflects the scheduled coupon payments and for CLO equity securities reflects various assumptions), and the estimated amounts and timing of principal payments (which may differ from the scheduled maturity date of an investment). The weighted average effective yield is calculated based on the amortized current cost investments. This statistic is being provided for informational purposes only and does not necessarily reflect the yield at which the Company's records its investment income for each investment. The estimated yield and investment cost may ultimately not be realized.
- 2. Represents the estimated fair value of investments as of June 30, 2021. Cash and borrowing capacity represents cash net of pending trade settlements and includes available capacity on the Company's credit facility as of June 30, 2021. Borrowings under the credit facility are subject to applicable regulatory and contractual limits.
- 3. The information presented herein is on a look-through basis to the collateralized loan obligation, or "CLO" and other related investments held by the Company as of June 30, 2021 (except as otherwise noted) and reflects the aggregate underlying exposure of the Company based on the portfolios of those investments. The data is estimated and unaudited and is derived from CLO trustee reports received by the Company relating to June 2021 and from custody statements and/or other information received from CLO collateral managers and other third party sources. Information relating to the market price of underlying collateral is as of month end; however, with respect to other information shown, depending on when such information was received, the data may reflect a lag in the information reported. As such, while this information was obtained from third party data sources, June 2021 trustee reports and similar reports, other than market price, it does not reflect actual underlying portfolio characteristics as of June 30, 2021 and this data may not be representative of current or future holdings. The weighted average remaining reinvestment period information is based on the fair value of CLO equity and debt investments held by the Company at the end of the reporting period.

 4. Data represents aggregate indirect exposure. We obtain our exposure in underlying senior secured loans indirectly through our CLO and related investments.
- 5. The weighted average OC cushion senior to the security is calculated using the BBB OC cushion for all BB-rated CLO debt securities in the portfolio and the BB OC cushion for all other securities in the portfolio, in each case as held on June 30, 2021.
- 6. Credit ratings shown are based on those assigned by Standard & Poor's Rating Group, or "S&P," or, for comparison and informational purposes, if S&P does not assign a rating to a particular obligor, the weighted average rating shown reflects the S&P equivalent rating of a rating agency that rated the obligor provided that such other rating is available with respect to a CLO or related investment held by us. In the event multiple ratings are available, the lowest S&P rating, or if there is no S&P rating, the lowest equivalent rating, is used. The ratings of specific borrowings by an obligor may differ from the rating assigned to the obligor and may differ among rating agencies. For certain obligors, no rating is available in the reports received by the Company. Ratings below 18BB- are below investment grade. Further information regarding S&P's rating methodology and definitions may be found on its website (www.standardandpoors.com).
